The Purpose of The Leadership Council for the College of Humanities and Sciences:

• To cater to and aid the current population of students in the College of Humanities and Sciences, consisting of both majors and minors within the College, as well as graduate-level students

• To unify the diverse array of students within the College of Humanities and Sciences around common interests

• To create stronger relationships and cooperation between the students, faculty, and administrators of the College of Humanities and Sciences

• To create stronger relationships between the various departments and schools of the College of Humanities and Sciences

• To initiate and coordinate student activities that would benefit all members of the College of Humanities and Sciences

• To promote academic excellence and research within the College of Humanities and Sciences

Leadership Council Expectations:

All students currently pursuing an undergraduate or graduate degree within the jurisdiction of the College can apply to the Leadership Council.

Members of the Council are referred to as Council Representatives. The members will also have the capacity to serve as Student Advisors to the Dean of the College by meeting with them twice a semester. Representative also serve as a bridge between their peers and the Council and assist in committees to plan and execute College-wide events.

The Leadership Council meets Thursdays, (8 p.m. - 9:30 p.m.). Student representatives are required to attend all Leadership Council meetings unless, having given prior notice, been excused by an executive board member, allowing two absences per semester.
